PROTEST IN ROAD RACE

Louis Winans's Great Trotter
Beaten by Bad Manners in Roadster Class.

Children opened the twenty-sixth annual National Horse Show yesterday afternoon as they paraded from different homes and institutions to the seats reserved for them in Madison Square Garden. Later a killed Scottish Canadian band marched across the tank in harness, shaking and with sportsmen waving to the music of bagpipes before ascending to the band gallery.

Before the afternoon waned there was a large attendance of the society and horse sets who have supported the exhibition for so many years. All the contests in the ring were interesting, and the finish of the road race by three four-hundred teams from the Arrowhead Inn was a stimulating feature. There followed as many protests and cross-charges regarding the coaching marathon as though it were a selling race at a winter meeting.

To come back to the children, who were a lot of them from industrial schools of the children's aid society in Manhattan, the orphan home and asylum of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Half Orphan Home, Mission of the Immaculate Virgin at Mount Loretto, Staten Island, with their own drum corps of fifty pieces, the City of New York Orphanage Asylum at Hastings, the Gerry society, the Five Points Mission and St. John's Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum of Brooklyn. There were both boys and girls in the St. John's delegation, and they were headed by a juvenile brass band of forty pieces. They encircled the building before filing into the garden, and the strains from this band really opened the show.

The boys' band had seats next to the Kilties band and they alternated in selections. The boys played so well that the Kilties after their first time burst out into hand claps and the Canadian drum major said afterward that the excellence of the junior players amazed him. Each child as it left the building received a souvenir of the visit in the way of a toy horse laden with candy as the personal gift of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, the president of the National Horse Show.

As the judging proceeded it became apparent that this year's show is to be an international one in character and quality. W. H. Moore won the opening class for novice harness horses with an imported English hackney, repeating a victory won in the same class with another hackney last year. William Foster, who has brought over some miniature hackney harness nags from Mel Valley's farm in England, scored the first of what promises to be many victories.

Walter Winans, the noted London exhibitor, sent saddle horses into the ring and appeared himself as driver of roadsters, taking a reverse from the judges in a true sporting way. In the class which W. M. V. Hoffman of Tuxedo Park won with his roadster Tennessee, the Australian bred trotter Willie, 2074, owned by Louis W. Winans, was sent out for bad manners, but the driver, A. C. Pennock, had no complaints to utter.

When the military and militia classes got into action the competitions became not only international but polyglot, comprising the Americans, English, and Canadians, who were followed by "Whos," the Dutch officers say "Steyenz," and "Hells," and the Frenchmen say "Allons et marche bien." Regarding the American officers and the military class of the show in a telegram Major Henry T. Allen of the General Staff at Washington, stated that the ranking officer of the United States army, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, with Major Gen. Garlington and Major Allen, will be in Manhattan tomorrow to attend the show. Regarding the mixup in the road race, there were three horses from the Arrowhead Inn at 177th street and Fort Washington avenue to proceed by a given route to Madison Square Garden and to finish in the ring within one hour. The horses must be owned by the exhibitor, but nothing was said about the actual ownership of the coach. The cup, a $700 trophy presented by Ben Rice, was to be won by the first horse to win twice in the ring. Morris E. Howlett's team won in 1908 and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's team last year.

The starters this time were J. H. Coulter of Boston, Paul A. Sorg of Pittsburgh and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, William Grant, Mr. Sorg's manager and William Grant, Mr. Sorg's driver, a chestnut stallion, gray before the yellow and black All Sport coach which was on the road from Larchmont and New York throughout the season. His team was made up of Queen of the Road, Tom Mountain, Brother Jack and Trip the Gutter. He left Arrowhead Inn at 4 o'clock with Von Der Horst Koch, the representative of the Horse Show Association.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt on an unnamed white and maroon coach drove with R. Smith as referee, official John McK. Bowman represented the Association on the only other entry, that of J. H. Coulter, who made his entry as the Yorkshire Farm of Jamaica Plain, Mass. He drove the coach Happy Days and inscribed on the boot was "Magnolia to Beverly Farms." The Coulter entry was sent away at 4:08 and the Vanderbilt entry at 4:10.

Grant sent the Sorg entry in exceptionally fast time over the prescribed route and was the first to drive into the garden, his team and coach rolling over the boards from the door and out on the tank bark as the saddle horse class with women riders was being judged. The Sorg team reached the goal at 4:26:27. This was an elapsed time of 36 minutes and 27 seconds or an average of practically fifteen miles an hour for the journey.

man informed the judges, Walter P. Miles, Adam Beck of Canada and Charles A. Boudouque, that Coulter and Morris E. Howlett, the professional whip, who sat on the box seat had alternated in driving the Happy Days. On this account the Coulter team was disqualified.

SOCIETY APPEARS EARLY

Horses Well Fitted and Promoters Busy on Opening Night.

Even without the children, who occupied seats in the balcony and who thoroughly appreciated everything they saw, the attendance at the opening of the twenty-sixth annual Horse Show was a record breaker. Usually the show opens quietly on Monday morning and it is not until about the middle of the week that it is at its best. Though opening this year on a Saturday, when there were many counter attractions, among them the Yale-Princeton football game, the lovers of the horse turned out well and the arena boxes were well filled in the afternoon and a steady procession paraded on the boardwalk.

The color scheme of the Garden made a dainty setting for the sombre colored costumes worn by the women and helped to make the scene a very pretty one. Some found fault with the electrolights, which they declared were too English, but on the whole the effect was pleasing and a horse show has in some measure to be English, because there the horse is worshipped much more than it is in this country.

The uniforms of the British, Dutch and French officers too added that little dash of color needed to complete the picture, and the foreign visitors were busy making many visits in the boxes.

There were many out of town visitors to the show, and their presence proved that the day selected for the opening was a good one. It was thought that these would wait until tomorrow to make their appearance. In the boxes were many newcomers in the horse world. Mrs. C. W. Watson, who drives the horses of her husband, entered under Fairmont Farms.

Mrs. Paul A. Sorg occupied her usual place in box 74, on the south side of the garden and she was much pleased when her husband's coach drove first into the Garden in the race from the Arrowhead Inn. She wore a blue cloth costume and small hat with white cloth agrette.

Mrs. George G. Hays wore gray and a small black hat trimmed with feathers. Mrs. Oliver Harriman wore a costume of green chiffon cloth and a brown maroon turban.

Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia wore a costume of black velvet and a large black velvet hat with white ostrich plumes. Mrs. Henry Seligman wore a costume of black velvet and a large black velvet hat with white ostrich plumes.

Mrs. Joseph W. Harriman wore a black cloth costume and a black and purple hat. Mrs. Elbert H. Gary wore black with a small black hat trimmed with feathers.

in black with a black hat. Her ornaments were diamonds and she wore a sable cloak.

Mrs. Lewis Nixon wore a costume of black silk trimmed with white lace, a black black hat with feathers, and her ornaments were diamonds.

Among others noticed in the Garden were Mr. and Mrs. E. Berry Wall, Col. Daniel Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Sturges, J. Campbell Thompson, Lewis Nixon, J. W. Harriman, Paul A. Sorg, Miss Vera Morris, Mr. and Mrs. McGibbon, Kingsley Swann, Lieut. W. C. Davis, H. C. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. McLean, Henry W. Bull, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, Mrs. A. Browning, Prentice Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. McGrath of Pittsburgh, Col. W. A. Kenna, Mr. and Mrs. William du Pont, William H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Weatherbee, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Hays, Lieut. Clifford Stiff, P. A. Hart, Lieut. C. F. Baldwin, F. D. Bourne, Henry V. Galt of Geneva, James Kilgour of Toronto and George Pepper of Toronto.

THE DAY WITH THE JUDGES.

W. H. Moore Wins First Blue Ribbon and W. M. V. Hoffman Scores in Roadsters.

There was an international interest in nearly every class judged throughout the afternoon and evening. Twenty-two high steppers in single harness appeared to open the show in the novice class for horses over 14.2 and not exceeding 14.1 hands. There was a vigorous competition throughout in which hackneys had the advantage in number over the trotters and halfbred trotters. The blue ribbon was awarded to William H. Moore of New York and Chicago with a champion hackney from the last international show. Whitehall Ariel, a bay mare lacking nothing in conformation or action, but not being very impressive in color, which may have been due to clipping.

Richard Delafield of Brook Farm, near Tuxedo Park, who is most conspicuous as an owner of roadsters and trotters, took second with a handsome chestnut gelding of American lineage named Energy. The best showing horse both in knee and look action and superbly driven by George Watson seemed to the onlookers to be the brown gelding leader of Fashion. The opinion of the railbirds had no force with the judges and this one was only placed third.

In the succeeding class for ponies above 13.2 and not exceeding 14, the horse show onlookers had their first glimpse of Mel Valley's Masterkey, one of the lot brought over by William Foster and a famous winner at British shows. He opposed the well known Irvington Tom Trot and Irvington Leading Girl and also Doctor O'Brien's team mare Sequel. All were class in type, but Mel Valley's Masterkey had the most finish in looks and action while being superbly handled by Fred Goddard. He won the blue with Irvington Leading Girl second, driven by Mrs. F. Frank, Irvington Tom Trot was third, but the black fairly beat out the chestnut.

An unusually large class of novice saddle horses, exceeding 15.2 hands appeared to open the ball for the equestrians. One of the entries that showed very well in the hands of Mrs. Belle Beach Bain was Mrs. Adolf Ladenburg's bay gelding Uruguay, which is a thoroughbred imported from South America and bred by the breeding bureau of the country for which it is named. It is by Napoleon Gonzales and the first appearance of a saddle horse from that country.

F. Vivian Goode, who formerly judged in this show ring for successive years, had the mount on the blue with Irvington Leading Girl, which was placed third. The winner was the 16 hand bay gelding Richmond, well ridden by William Collier for E. T. Stotesbury of the Riding Club. Flormann Flitration a 16 hand chestnut mare of the strongest type, was second.

The class of trotters in single road harness, with conditions that they should not be under 15 hands and to have been non-winners at any of the previous shows, brought twenty entries into the ring. Miss Anna H. Deane, who was a costume of green and brown, was the first to be sent out for the final judging, but she did not finish among the winners. She worked hard with them and the judging was a protracted one. Women were unfortunately for among the first sent out, owned by Charlotte E. Ward of Rome, N. Y. and Okon Belle and Mograzia, owned by Miss K. L. Wilks of Galt, Ont. Among the early dismissed were Joseph N. the Goshen track winner for Richard Delafield, and Queen Vera, owned by E. C. Rich of East Orange, N. J.

Walter Winans, looking very sporty in a white coat with red buttons, made his first appearance as a driver in this country with his chestnut gelding Bonnie Drew, which showed well, but was not left in for the final judging. The sensation of the class was the appearance of Louis W. Winans's $50,000 trotting stallion Willie, 2074, who has campaigned successfully on the C. & G. Circuit this season for his London owner. Willie's last appearance in Greater New York was when he won the Speedway cup at the Empire City track in Grand Central meeting of last August, but this time he was not to be so fortunate. He was driven by A. C. Pennock, who handles the trotters in this country for Mr. Winans, but bad manners caused him to be sent from the ring. Driver Pennock said after he came out of the ring that the judges could have taken no other action.

Four of the left in for the final placing were W. M. V. Hoffman's chestnut gelding Tennessee, a frequent winner on the half mile tracks in Orange county, and who has a record of 2:10 for 1 mile, and a record of 1:10 for 1/2 mile, owned by Horatio N. Beck of Poughkeepsie, Lorna Doone, the bay mare, owned by E. C. Leeds of Woodbury, N. J., and the bay mare Ruby, owned by F. Stotesbury of Philadelphia.

At the show last year, H. B. Pancoast drove for Stotesbury, the owners driving the other three Tennessee won the blue ribbon, and it was a result particularly satisfactory to Mr. Hoffman, as he had not been an exhibitor in the Garden for five or six years. Thanks to Tennessee, he came back a winner. Frances Beck placed second, only lacked substance to be as good as the gelding. Lorna Doone received the third and Ruby the fourth award.

Two riding classes followed. The first was for children under 15 years of age and sons and daughters of amateur horsemen, in the saddle. The winner was a stallion gray mare, Lady Idol, owned by Somerset Farm of East Millstone, N. J., ridden by Miss Margaret Tompkins. Vansty, Miss Alice Webb was second, Happy Boy, Miss Ethel Harriman, third, and Foreign Beauty, Master Clarence Levy, fourth. Other youngsters who rode in the class were Miss Frances Horne, Louise Blaise, Eudice Kelly and C. M. Greer, Jr. All the little girls rode astride.

There was more dignity among the feminine riders in the following class, which was for ladies' saddle horses over 15.2 hands. The conditions required that ladies should ride on side saddles, for they could not have sacrificed their dignity if they had chosen to be so daring. The eight entries included Miss Vera Morris, just back from London and formerly well known at our summer shows. On the gray gelding Gracious she appeared with a gray habit and a gray topped hat that suggested those worn at county coaches. The winner was the thoroughbred, Dr. Crockett, winner in his class at the last Garden show and at Chicago and champion this year at Pittsburgh. The second being unbeaten throughout the summer season. This is one of the great string of saddle horses collected in the last three years by Henry R. Bea, one of Pittsburgh's group of steel magnates and whose wife is the daughter of the late Henry W. Oliver and a niece of United States Senator George T. Oliver. The family alternates between Pittsburgh and New York as residents, but this season for the first time the horses are shown as the property of Fairhill Farms of Sewickley, Pa. Miss Edith Blaisdell was second with Flormann Flitration, Mrs. W. A. MacGibbon was third with Portchester and Miss E. M. Daniels fourth on Artillery, a chestnut stallion owned at night in the militia class by Lieut. Frank B. Barrett and which was second with him in the class for officers' chargers at the last international at London.

There were twenty-one in the ring for the opening class at night for novice harness horses of 15.1 and not over 15.3 hands. The winner was the chestnut gelding, Lord Seaton, and the second was Lord Seaton and the third was Lord Seaton and the fourth was Lord Seaton.
